

Some Notes from February 1

In class we discussed limits of complex-valued functions of a complex variable, and we noted that many of the familiar “limit theorems” from real variables will still hold.

After class a student asked whether there are any theorems about “limits of compositions of functions.”

What do you think?